The gutter oil scandal has been a popular topic in Taiwan recently. It is a terrible event because it means our food safety turns into the red light. We should be more careful about what we eat.

Do you wonder how the scandal broke out? It broke out because an old farmer told it to Taichung Government; however, it was not the first time for him to do so. In fact, he has told it to Pingtung Government five times, but the government never dealt with it. The old farmer decided to show what the bad businessmen did to the public by himself.

He bought a camera to record their bad behaviors. Also, he looked for the information to show the gutter oil was illegal. Finally the old farmer who didn't go to school when he was young made it.

What do we learn from the event? Without any knowledge in science, the old farmer just wanted to stop the bad business. He could try many different ways to make it. He started to learn new things, and improved his own knowledge in science. If an old man could do this, why can't we? Stop complaining about our studies, stop saying "I can't!" and instead give ourselves a chance to start learning and fall in love with learning.

Recently, Tzu Chi Foundation has been controversial. Some think they have too much money and they don't clearly let people know where people's donation went. However, some say they will still support Tzu Chi Foundation because they have done many good things for Taiwan. For example, they built schools for students, like our Guoxing Junior High School. Also, they keep helping the poor by giving some clothes and preparing some food for them. In fact, when we see things and people, we try to look at their good sides. We learn to be as good as what we see. Surely, there are something wrong or bad in a thing and a person. When we see it, tell ourselves not to be so! So, we can focus on the good things Tzu Chi Foundation had done and ask them to be more careful with their problem and try to solve it. It is the attitude we can learn from the Tzu Chi Foundation affair. As the saying goes, "There are two sides to one coin." Tzu Chi Foundation is an example.

Robert

Robert's big day is coming. The following five people are talking about it.

Derek

I have been his classmate for nine years. I am a little sad that we need to say goodbye now. I will give him some flowers as a gift in the graduation though I know we are still schoolmates. On his big day, I will go with him.

graduation 畢業典禮

Daniel

I am so happy that my friend makes his dream come true. Now he doesn't need to worry about his weight but his grades in the future because people in his new environment will be smarter than him. Though he thinks he is smart and good at math, sometimes I think even my math is better than his. Take the final exam for example. I got A++ in math, but he just got A. By the way, on his big day, I will do as Derek because our new and same environment makes us nervous. We three are all from Guoxing, so we will go there together.

Harris

I am so proud of him. I had a goal that I wanted to win him. Finally, although he won me a little bit, I also made my dream come true, too. To study, both of us will live in Taichung for about three years. Maybe for longer, because Robert will have a girlfriend and get married in Taichung in the future, I guess.

Jason

I am a little sad because I don't know if I have a chance to see my good friend again. I still remember I used to laugh at him, like "pond" in Chinese. After the graduation, we need to go to Taichung. He is for studies, but I am for my work. We have our own big days! Although we are in Taichung, I guess next time I see him is at his wedding because we are busy.

Evan

Today, I want to say congratulations to my cute friend for neither his birthday nor his graduation. It's for his big day. I will take a bus to Taichung with him for our own big days. I am so happy we can go forward to our own dreams although we are not classmates or schoolmates anymore. At the same time, I am sad because Jason with the same dream as me before can't study with me. I will never forget Jason and Robert because I really like to trick them.

Robert said that he will invite me to his birthday party next year. I will play tricks on him as what I did in Guoxing Junior High School.
